Baby Quail Adopted

Holding a frail quail, one of two chicks found in a Royal Oak strawberry patch, is Mrs. Kay Monson, 40 Lurline Avenue, who plans to raise them. Pedestrian Dies on Highway

Victim's Body Dragged 300 Feet As Car Kills Duncan Woman

Death Car Driven By Duncan Youth

(Special to the Colonist)

DUNCAN—Pedestrian Mrs. Elsie Davies, 56, was killed late last night while walking down the Island Highway north of Duncan only 300 feet from the safety of the Drinkwater Road turning where she lived.

Police said she was struck by the left front side of a car driven by Jack Roozendaal, 18, of Duncan, shortly after 10 p.m.

She was apparently dragged 300 feet from the point of impact and her right leg was severed between the knee and the ankle and hurled into the grass by the side of the highway.

Police said she was dead when they arrived at the scene, minutes after the accident. She suffered multiple injuries.

Broken glass from a smashed left headlight littered the accident scene and the car careened off the highway and wound up in a ditch.

Late last night police were still investigating the accident. They believed Mrs. Davies was walking on the pedestrian side of the road.

She was the wife of well-known Duncan butcher Roger Davies.

Police were summoned to the accident scene by residents, who heard the loud crash.

No witnesses were immediately located and RCMP are seeking persons who may have seen the accident.

Married Women Belong at Home

OTTAWA (CP)—President Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie of the University of British Columbia says as far as he is concerned woman's place—if she is married—is in the home.

"I may be old-fashioned, but I believe in accordance with the marriage ceremony that one of the functions of marriage is the procreation of children." He said in an address to the Canadian Association of University Teachers.

"Because of this, I am opposed to the full-time employment of married women on the teaching staff of a university. Part-time employment, perhaps—but her home, her husband and, I would hope, her children have first claims upon a young married woman."

Lure Boys

Clean-Up Paint-Up For Reds

BERLIN (UP) — East German Communist girls were urged Wednesday to dress up, use make-up and look pretty so they would convert more boys to the Red cause.

"Young men forget everything when a girl is pretty and dresses well," youth leader Inge Thel told a Communist rally in Magdeburg. "They place value only on externals."

Miss Thel said many girl leaders of the "Free German Youth" movement did good work for the organization but failed to convert boys because "they forgot to look at themselves closely in the mirror."

Preview of Arms Policy

Stassen on Carpet For Tipping Hand

JOHN FOSTER DULLES
. . . Bawling out

WASHINGTON (AP)—State department officials judge that Harold Stassen has violated one of the basic and vital rules of U.S. diplomacy.

He did this, they say, when he gave Soviet delegate Valerian Zorin a secret preview of U.S. disarmament policy while it was still being co-ordinated with allied governments.

Concern in the state department over allied protests against Stassen's action—and the extent of his private discussions with the Russian disarmament negotiator—were behind Stassen's consultations this week with State Secretary Dulles and other officials.

Reports were current that Dulles had "reprimanded" or "bawled out" Stassen, who is President Eisenhower's special disarmament adviser and a member of Dulles' staff. State department press officer Lincoln White, in replying to questions about these reports, refused to confirm or deny a Dulles reprimand.

However, from what can be learned from other government sources, there appears no doubt that Stassen will return to the London disarmament talks tonight with his wings as a diplomat sharply clipped.

The major point which Dulles is reported to have made to Stassen is this:

It has been a cardinal principle of American diplomacy that in all important matters relating to Russia the United States acts primarily as a member of the western alliance—the leading member unquestionably, but a member nonetheless.

Tories Sure Of 112 Votes

OTTAWA (BUP)—The Conservatives will have 112 sure votes and possibly 116 when they meet the 107 Liberals in the House of Commons this autumn.

Prime Minister St. Laurent's resignation appears imminent. He may announce it after a final cabinet meeting today, or after meeting Conservative leader John Diefenbaker tomorrow.

Nearly-complete returns from Monday's voting showed the CCF with 24 elected members and the Social Credit group with 18. Neither of the third parties alone could keep the Liberals in power in the 265-seat House, but either of them teamed with the Tories could easily defeat the Liberals.

Full realization of the almost perfect stalemate in the new House of Commons came when Prime Minister St. Laurent returned to Ottawa and indicated clearly he intended to step down and let Conservative leader John Diefenbaker form a government.

How long it will last is anybody's guess. A general election to break the deadlock is being freely predicted for the autumn.

Both CCF leader M. J. Coldwell and Social Credit leader Solon Low have said they will not enter coalition with either of the bigger parties. But both promised to co-operate in getting the essential work through the fall sittings of Parliament, which must be held to vote appropriations for the balance of the fiscal year.

Mr. Diefenbaker will arrive Friday morning on an early plane from Western Canada.

Adlai Stevenson Hits Africa's Racial Policy

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (Reuters) — Adlai Stevenson criticized South Africa's white supremacy policy Wednesday. External Affairs Minister Eric Louw quickly retorted that the American Democratic party leader was intruding in local politics.

Stevenson condemned racial segregation as impractical and unrealistic at a press conference before leaving for Salisbury, Southern Rhodesia, on the next leg of his African business tour.

Stevenson, unsuccessful Democratic candidate for president in 1952 and 1956, told his press conference he hesitated to comment on public affairs since he was here on a private visit.

"But honesty compels me to say that the policy of total racial separation does not seem to me either practical or realistic in a modern state where white and non-white are interdependent."

He added the march of time cannot be halted and "repression, fear and indignity will only increase racial consciousness and solidarity and hasten the day of reckoning and reconsideration."

"But I do not question the good faith of the authorities nor their concern for the well-being of the Africans," Stevenson added.

"I very much hope the outside world will better understand and appreciate the complexity of South Africa's baffling and agonizing when on a visit to our country problems," he said. "They are to intervene in our political affairs and criticize the government unique in this shrinking world."

Louw said: "One appreciates in power—any government."

Everyone's Eating Berries

With strawberries being offered at the lowest prices since 1947, local sales of the fresh fruit have nearly doubled.

"We sold more strawberries at the end of last week than we have for years," he said. "People are eating strawberries who haven't eaten them for a long time."

Present standard price appears to be two hallocks for 49 cents, but this may drop further, he said.

The Saanich crop, he said, is expected to reach its peak about the middle of next week.

Yesterday's and today's pickings are being largely used for jam because the recent rain made them unsuitable for shipping.

The Queen Can Do No Right!

Now She Won't Go to the Dogs

By EDDY GILMORE

LONDON (AP) — Britain's greyhound racing association complained Wednesday it apparently is in the royal doghouse because Queen Elizabeth refuses to patronize the greyhound derby.

"Her Majesty avidly follows the horses," growled a spokesman for the association, "but she won't go to the dogs. It puts us in an odd position and we don't think it's fair."

The association's first blast at Buckingham Palace was sounded by the 73-year-old Lord Brabazon of Tara, dog owner and track patron.

Bubbling with indignation, he told a membership luncheon:

"For some reason we are shunned by royalty, though we believe we are perfectly respectable people. Seventeen million Britons visited the dog tracks last year, but these didn't include royalty. I want to know why."

Sitting beside his lordship was the Queen's cousin, Lord Carisbrooke, senior steward of the National Greyhound Racing Club.

"Hear, hear," he remarked, "I agree. I took my sister, the Queen of Spain (ex-Queen Victoria Eugenia), to the dog races only last week. She enjoyed them immensely and even had a bet or two."

Sir Alan Herbert, author, humorist, and former member of Parliament, added his voice, saying:

"Dog racing, which gives pleasure to thousands, seems to be shunned by royalty. Have some people ever stopped to think that dogs run faster than some of the Queen's horses?"

The 27th derby will be run June 29. The Queen is not attending.

Questioned about Her Majesty's failure to show up at the dog tracks, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said:

"It's quite true that the Queen has never been dog racing. But, there are a lot of things she has not been to."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

Visiting librarians may know more about Victoria than residents, when the 12th annual conference of the Canadian Library Association here concludes, June 15.

A bright and informative guide to "shoppers, sightseers, gourmets and shutterbugs," was handed the delegates. It contains some items that are news to me.

I'm ashamed to admit that I had never heard about Walbran park on Gonzales Hill. It is named after Captain John Walbran, author of a well-known book on B.C. place names. (I had heard about the book, though.)

John Tod's house at 2564 Heron street is believed to be the oldest house still standing in Victoria. Until recently it was one of the few in Victoria genuinely haunted. So the book says. The house belonged to chief trader John Tod, who had a distinguished career with the Hudson's bay company before retiring to his 406-acre farm at Oak Bay.

James Dunsmuir used to employ 100 men to tend the gardens of his Hatley park estate and to care for the conservatory, which provided the Dunsmuirs and guests with home-grown bananas and rare orchids.

The librarians' mimeographed booklet is rich in nuggets of fact like that. It also contains a directory of cocktail bars.

A reader who signs himself—or herself—"Boots" Scott sends me some lively comments through the mail every now and then.

There is no clue to the correspondent's real name or address. However, the letters are interesting. This is a sample:

"Everywhere you go you hear people kicking about the immigrants in Canada. Just because we are lucky enough to be born here, does that mean to say we own the country exclusively?

"Are they not God's people, and is this not God's country? Come on, Canadians, open your eyes and your hearts and most of all your country. It is big enough and rich enough for a million more good citizens.

"Just give these people a chance to earn a decent living and they will make good Canadians. We, who are born here, take our freedom, our opportunities and our Dominion too much for granted."

"I'll have to admit the immigrants should not be dumped into the cities where there is no employment or housing, but should be placed where there are new industries and new country opening up.

"Just give Canada the right government and the manpower and we can be as strong as any nation."

* * *

My correspondent Neil McCallum of Sebastopol, California, a savage critic of British Columbia's hotels and restaurants, sends a post script to a recent letter. This time, he has something to say about a certain seafood palace not many miles from here:

"After groping through a dimly lighted and smoky and smelly entrance we were served by what seemed to be a being of the pithecanthropus period, and the oleaginous mess was certainly deprived of whatever food value it may have had originally by being fried to a fossil.

"The bread had no doubt been fresh at some former date, and the butter had the quality which is considered good for wine, but not for butter."

Queen Honors Conductor

DONALD WOLFIT
. . . noted Shakespearean

LONDON (Reuters)—The Queen yesterday awarded honors and decorations to about 2,600 of her subjects ranging from the men who took part in last year's military operation against Egypt to Sir Thomas Beecham, renowned orchestra conductor.

The official birthday honors list made a baron of J. Arthur Rank, British motion picture magnate, and a knight of Donald Wolfit, the Shakespearean actor.

The "Suez" honors with 300 names were recorded in a special supplement to the list. Gen. Sir Charles Keightley, over-all commander of the operation, was made a knight grand cross of the Order of the British Empire (GBE).

The only Canadian in the list is Warrant Officer Frederick William Humberstone of Sarnia, Ont., serving in the Royal Air Force. He was made a member of the Order of the British Empire (MBE).

Honors lists are issued twice a year, at New Year's and on the occasion of the Queen's official birthday, June 13 this year. Her Majesty's real birthday—she was 31 on April 21—differs from the official date because by custom the Sovereign's birthday is set on the first ... in June.

TASK FORCE LEADER

Vice - Admiral Leonard Durnford-Slater in charge of the Anglo-French naval task force, became a knight commander of the Order of the Bath (KCB) and Lt.-Gen. Sir Hugh Stockwell, who commanded the land task force, was given a bar to his Distinguished Service Order. Air Marshal Denis Barnett, the air task force commander, also was promoted to KCB.

One new viscount was created in the honors list—Baron Mackintosh of Halifax, chairman of the national savings committee, a government group which encourages thrift.

The three new barons are:

Sir Horace Evans, 51, physician to the Queen;

Lt.-Gen. Sir Willoughby Norrie, due soon to retire as governor-general of New Zealand;

Rank, 68, who as head of both a flour-milling and a movie empire is called the man who gave Britain both bread and circuses.

A deeply religious Methodist, he started financing movies to spread the gospel and eventually became the biggest name in the British screen industry.

FOUR BARONETS

Among four new baronets—knights who can pass their title of "sir" on to their descendants—is Brig. Fitzroy MacLean, who during the war parachuted into Yugoslavia to help Tito's partisans against the occupying Germans. Since the war, he has been a politician and was recently posted to the very select group of Companions of Honor (CH).

Conductor Beecham, 78, was appointed under-secretary for war.

'Temper' Tripped Editors

TORONTO (CP) — Ralph Allen, editor of Maclean's magazine, said last night the editorial in the current issue, written in advance about another Liberal victory, "underestimated the temper of the Canadian people."

Mr. Allen said "an apology to our readers" will be carried in the next issue.

After 53 Days

Mayflower Reaches U.S. Port

PROVINCETOWN, Mass. (AP)—Robust Cmdr. Alan Villiers, who has spent most of his 54 years on the wind's highway, brought Mayflower II to port Wednesday after sailing the replica of the historic pilgrim bark over more than 5,000 miles of the western ocean in 53 days.

Urgency forced him to take a tow line for the last short leg of the voyage.

ORIGINAL BERTH

Wednesday night Mayflower swung to a mooring buoy in Provincetown Harbor, where the original rested after her long and wearing voyage of 66 days in 1620.

A fleet of about 50 yachts and other craft greeted the 180-ton, 92-foot bark at the harbor entrance—only a few of the hardier braving the rough seas and 40-knot wind outside. Thousands of spectators lined the shore.

Then health, immigration and customs officers boarded her and transacted the business required when a foreign vessel enters another country's domain.

NO VISITING

All 22 members of the ship's company were garbed in pilgrim costumes upon arrival.

No one will be allowed ashore here and no visitors will be permitted to board the Mayflower here. The only exceptions were government officials who handled her formal entry to the country.

After a 12-day call at Plymouth, Mayflower is scheduled to proceed to New York, there to become a summer tourist attraction. Then she is due to return to Plymouth to become a permanent exhibit at a reproduced pilgrim village.

To Hold Subs at Bay

Canada's Navy Changing Role

OTTAWA (CP)—A revolutionary concept of sea warfare is being adopted by the Royal Canadian Navy. Tactics for the new strategy are being worked out.

The nub of the new policy—biggest change in naval planning since the First World War — is that convoy protection would be only a subsidiary job for the RCN in a future war.

The main task would be formation of defensive barriers far out in the Atlantic and Pacific Oceans to try to prevent submarines carrying nuclear - headed missiles from getting close to the Canadian seaboard.

Navy officials said Wednesday the basic role of the RCN—detection and killing of submarines—has not changed. But the capability of the submarine has.

A submarine now can fire a nuclear - tipped missile 300 miles. One could stand 50 miles off New York and strike the heart of Toronto.

Defence officials have said that Russia has built a fleet of more than 400 submarines—seven times as big as the German U-boat pack of the Second World War.

Some warships would still be required to shepherd merchantmen. But convoy protection would be subsidiary to the job of keeping submarines out of missile range of Canadian coastal and inland cities.

Presbyterians Turn Down Union Idea

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Presbyterian General Assembly Wednesday night turned down a proposal that the church offer to discuss union with the Anglican Church of Canada.

Professor David Hay of Knox College, Toronto, proposed that the assembly ask the Anglican Church to appoint a committee to confer with Presbyterians on proposals emanating from discussions between the Church of Scotland and the Church of England. The two are discussing union.

Professor Hay said the Presbyterian Church should be "on the inside" in these discussions.

After strong opposition led by Rev. Dr. E. J. White of Edmonton, the assembly rejected the proposal and adopted a motion to appoint a special committee to study the whole question of inter-church relations, including re-ordination or double ordination.

Down With Beauty Contests

MONTREAL (CP) — The International Council of Women put its foot down Wednesday on beauty contests.

Some 450 delegates from 35 countries agreed to try to influence public opinion against the "exaggerated importance attributed to beauty contests."

The women, meeting here for a 10-day triennial conference, plan to work in their own countries to on a "higher level for moral and intellectual ideals."

Their plan of action was contained in one of a number of resolutions passed by the international council Wednesday. The conference, which concludes Friday, has been devoted largely to private committee meetings since it opened last week.

In other resolutions, the delegates dealt with pornography and prostitution. They appealed to women's organizations around the world "to work against pornographic publications which destroy the morals of youth and degrade women."

The council also carried a resolution re - affirming its "consistent belief in the principle of the equal moral responsibility of men and women in matters of sexual morality."

The motion asked national councils of women to reconsider problems arising from prostitution—"in particular to recognize that the man is as responsible for the practice of prostitution as the woman."

Several resolutions were devoted to the need for improving the status of women in general and working women in particular.

Noting the increasing participation of married women in the economic and social life of many countries, the council stressed the importance of providing adequate facilities for assistance in the day homes as organized in a number of countries should be commensurate with the growing needs," the council resolution said.

Another motion called for equal pay for equal work by women, fair assessment of jobs and access to all forms of vocational training, to all positions and to fair promotion."

Mr. Jung Goes to Ottawa

MR. Douglas Jung's success at the polls in Vancouver Centre has given delight to people all over British Columbia regardless of party, and nowhere more so than in Victoria, his birthplace. Mr. Jung becomes the first Canadian of Chinese extraction to enter Parliament, but equally appealing to public sentiment was the fact that his candidature brought on one of those David-and-Goliath contests the outcome of which always gives pleasure when it follows the Biblical pattern.

His victory may have been influenced in part by the rise in popular favor of the Conservative Party which he represents, but it was a considerable personal triumph also. A minister of the Crown is always a hard opponent to overthrow, and Mr. Ralph Campney from whom Mr. Jung captured the seat was not only solidly entrenched in his riding but also held one of the most important portfolios of all, that of defence. Because of the advantages to a riding of being represented in the cabinet, a minister often is able to draw votes from electors opposed to his party. Mr. Jung reversed that procedure, which was a signal accomplishment for which the credit belongs to him personally more than to any other element in the election campaign.

This is the first time that the invisible barrier which has existed around the Houses of Parliament since Confederation has been penetrated by someone of Asiatic ancestry, and it is a heartening development in Canadian political evolution. The population of the Dominion is composed of people of all races and all nationalities, and its government should not be reserved for those of any particular ethnic groups. Putting aside party considerations, there is room for regret that Mayor Hawrelak failed in his bid to become the first member of Parliament of Ukrainian origin; but now that Mr. Jung has broken through the barrier the Canadian people are able to show to the world that citizenship of this country is a real thing and not merely the possession of a printed document. Mr. Jung's election marks the first defeat of a prejudice which was more a matter of habit than of inclination or conviction.

Multiple Parties

SOME reference has been made to the result of the election as indicating a return to the two-party system. Unfortunately there is little to support this view. The lesser groupings of the CCF and Socreds have in fact improved their position. Between them they now hold more seats than ever they did before. There has thus been no diminution of the splintering effect they have on the House of Commons.

Over the past two decades the combined average of CCF and Socred-held seats has been about 30. On Monday the number was increased to 44, with the CCF winning 25 seats and the Socreds 19. Far from being eliminated as an important parliamentary element they remain as an upsetting force. The Conservatives great victory was gained almost exclusively at the expense of the Liberals, and the lesson of a real two-party system has yet to be learned.

The present impasse should make this more plain even than before. The palm of government will probably go to the Conservatives, but neither they nor the Liberals have the over all majority which is necessary for stable and desirable administration. Until this kind of situation is altered, and only the voters can alter it, the corollary is that either these two main parties will divide their support fairly evenly at election times, thus leaving neither with a needed majority, or else one will gain too great a preponderance over the other. Neither of these results are conducive to good parliamentary government.

It would seem obvious that the pleas issued against splitting the vote by distribution of favors among four parties instead of two fell on a great many deaf ears. Since the CCF and Socred groups increased their representation these pleas must be said to have failed. An opportunity to correct the situation will not be too far away, however. Governance cannot proceed far on sufferance, and if as expected Mr. Diefenbaker is called on to form the next government it is implicit in the situation that he will seek a wider mandate as soon as possible. Perhaps by then voters as a whole will appreciate better the adverse effect of multiple parties and realize that only in two strong main groups offering alternative government can Canada hope to maintain a well-balanced political structure.

Attacking the Source

TIMBER stands on the northern end of Vancouver Island for years to come will be affected by the systematic spraying of 150,000 acres of forest land in the vicinity of Port Hardy with an insecticide. The work began this week with Grumman planes under the direction of foresters, and flown by Skyway Air Services. Before the task is completed an area representing some three billion board feet of useful timber will have been covered with a solution of DDT, mixed with solvents and oil. The object is to catch the budworms after they hatch and before the larvae can do irreparable damage to young or mature trees. So it is a race against time.

Aerial spraying of forests is by no means new in Canada. It has been used in Ontario for many years, and in British Columbia the systematic application of the method has been growing steadily. In the present instance, Timber stands with a potential value of approximately $300,000,000 are being protected from an active attack by the budworm pest, which can strip a hill in a single season. This is part of the preventive work of the day. By a direct attack on the cause of insect infestation future outbreaks can be brought under control, and in many instances eradicated. Precaution is taken to see that the insecticide is composed of a formula that will not prove harmful to birds or animals.

Much as British Columbia forests have been logged and used, two heavy sources of wastage are still fire and insect pests. Nowadays bush fires are jumped on quickly. Insect control is more difficult.

Sometimes years may go by before fresh areas of infestation can be detected. The Port Hardy operation, which began on Monday, will be a quick "blitz" of the timber stand concerned and at the best time. The hope is to destroy all or most of this year's hatch of budworm eggs in the region. The result should be a clean stand, and one which will yield its benefits to the economy of B.C. for a long time to come.

Interpreting the News

Japan Seeks the Road Back

By DAY INOSHITA
United Press Correspondent

TOKYO (UP) — Japan is striving slowly and consciously to become a spokesman for Asia and a powerful voice once again in world councils.

Its leaders have avoided direct expression of this aim in words. But they have hinted at it repeatedly.

Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi indicated this on the day after he returned to Tokyo from a quick tour of six Asian countries—the first made by any Japanese premier to at least four of the nations either before or after the war.

"I have formed an idea of the thinking of Asia's leaders," Kishi told a news conference. "What we discussed will contribute, I believe, to my talks with American leaders in the United States this month."

Whether the other countries of Asia like this development is another question. Some, like the Philippines and Burma, are still suspicious of Japanese motives, fearing a revival of world war militarism.

Others, like the Republic of Korea, are openly hostile. Still others like Thailand, Ceylon and Pakistan, apparently do not mind.

But even if they objected, there appears to be little they can do to stop Japan from regaining a position in the front rank of the struggling nations of Asia—most of them newly born and caught in a morass of problems of newly-won independence.

Japan is the only really industrialized nation in this section of the world. Its people are energetic, ambitious and skilled in handicrafts. Their literacy rate is one of the highest in the world.

In the process of working its way up, some Americans fear Japan will become anti-American. That differences will develop as Japan struggles free of the cocoon of American care which wrapped it after the war seems obvious. But the consensus is that Japan will not turn anti-American.

That Japan today is laying concrete plans for its role in Asia, however, is a measure of how far this country has progressed since it signed the surrender aboard the U.S.S. Missouri in 1945 and even in the two years since the first conference of the Afro-Asian nations in Bandung, Indonesia, two years ago.

At the Bandung conference, Japan's first major international meeting since the San Francisco peace conference in 1951, Japan was a supplicant among the nations of Asia and Africa seeking readmittance to their community. It stayed out of the controversies and moved cautiously so that it would not tread on others' toes.

This was in sharp contrast to the confidence with which Kishi toured Burma, India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Thailand and Nationalist China during the past few weeks, espousing friendship, trade and large scale development plans.

The road back was not easy. But Japan has come far since it lay in ruins in 1945, half of its capital city and most of its industrial factories razed to the ground.

Thinking Aloud

Gerald Waring

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

MEMORIES of wartime pilots and public alike will be stirred by news of the grounding of the last three Spitfires, used in recent years only on routine weather flights.

One composite aircraft will be kept for the RAF's annual Battle of Britain flypast, but the saga has ended. No more will this beautiful bird-like plane be seen on military service.

The magic of a name! Never was this more evident than in the case of the Spitfire. It captured public imagination as no other plane before or since, so that a Hurricane pilot, at the height of the aerial duel in 1940 above English skies, could say, wistfully: "The word 'Hurricane' doesn't seem to strike the same note."

Hurricanes and Spitfires in even concert put the Luftwaffe to rout but the glory centred on the latter. Even in the sky, in the midst of fierce aerial combat, it was "Achtung! Spitfire!" that could be heard sounding over Nazi radios.

* * *

Beaverbrook began it all, perhaps, when he launched his famous pots and pans appeal. He wanted aluminum and, he told British housewives, he wanted it now!

"Out of the frying-pan into the Spitfire," headlined one newspaper and the crusade was on. Here was one voluntary contribution that could be made to the great cause, and the pots and pans, the kettles, coathangers, shoe-trees, bathroom fixtures, ornaments and myriad other aluminum objects rose in piles house-high.

"We gave five saucepans and two frying-pans," a proud housewife would say. It became a point of honor to swell the collection.

And then came the famous "Spitfire Fund." In a sense it was an illusion, for the money went towards the building of Hurricanes and the Wellington and Hampden bombers too, but there was a glamour around the word "Spitfire."

* * *

You could "buy" one for £5,000. Actually the plane cost more but this was the sum fixed for public subscription. You could even own a piece of a Spitfire; eight shillings would provide a spark plug, six-pence a rivet, £40 a petrol tank, £5 a compass, and so on.

The money poured in. A week's pocket money from a schoolboy, an emerald from a maharaji, dollars from Canada and America, cheques from bereaved families from almost every conceivable quarter of the globe came contributions to the "Spitfire Fund." In a matter of months the fund reached ten million pounds.

Such was the magic of the name "Spitfire" that even a Hurricane pilot put his dart-game winnings in a Spitfire pot.

The British have displayed genius in naming planes and ships. Names like Dreadnought, Mosquito, Inflexible, Beaufighter, Warspite and Typhoon lift the spirit and recall the daring and resolution they represent. And Spitfire was high among the best.

How much more evocative than, say, PX 1, 2, or 3, or CF100.

The navy has the wit to perpetuate the names of its famous ships by bestowing them on successors; what a pity the air force hasn't. For "Spitfire" is a name that should not be laid aside. It speaks of deeds of derring-do at a time in history when to be a Spitfire pilot was a badge of immortality.

Reports from Ottawa

NOW that the election has passed into history this might be a good time to forego for the moment any serious analysis of the new political situation, and take a look at the lighter side of the election campaign.

For there was one.

As when Jack Sinnott, one-time Liberal MP for Springfield, Man., sought to improve his chances as an independent candidate by tearing down pictures of Liberal candidate Anton Weselak and Prime Minister St. Laurent.

Weselak phoned the police, who hustled the irate Sinnott off to pokey. There a Winnipeg reporter interviewed him through the bars. Sinnott was worried. "You know," he said, "a thing like this could hurt a fellow's political career."

* * *

Among the cuter election tricks was one the CCF pulled in Prince Albert, Sask. The riding was plastered with signs reading "Vote Diefenbaker." The socialists had signs printed reading simply "Why," and tacked them onto the tops of the "Vote Diefenbaker" posters.

And then there was the shop window facing a Roman Catholic church in the Toronto riding of Spadina. Someone—obviously not a Conservative—put a big sign in it on a Saturday night. It said: "Protestants Vote Conservative."

A good many of the independent candidates, especially in Quebec, were obviously straw men running to split the Liberal vote in the hope of enabling the Tory candidate to squeeze in. But in Grenville-Dundas, Ont., the Liberals had a more refined gimmick. They ran Arthur C. Casselman against the Tory MP of the last 32 years, Arza C. Casselman. Alphabetically the Liberal's name came first on the ballot paper.

In London, Liberal Hugh Mackenzie had so many workers—an estimated 900—that the top command didn't know them all. So the male workers were given Mackenzie tartan ties to identify them. Trouble was, some of Tory Ernie Halpenny's people also had ties of the same tartan, endangering the secrecy of Liberal planning and operations.

In John Diefenbaker's tour of three ridings south of Quebec City, a sound truck preceded the Conservative leader's motorcade. At every scheduled stop of the motorcade, two little men scrambled out of the truck just in time to erect a sign across the street reading "Bienvenue John." Then, after Diefenbaker had made his little speech and shaken hands, they jumped back into their truck with the "welcome" sign and roared off to the next stop to repeat the performance. In the news photos, the sign made it appear that Diefenbaker was getting quite a reception in the little French-Canadian towns on the south shore of the St. Lawrence.

* * *

Many reasons were advanced for the re-election of members of the last Parliament, but quite the most ingenious were those put forward on behalf of John Blackmore (Social Credit, Lethbridge, Alta.) and Gordon Purdy (Lib., Colchester-Hants, N.S.). They each needed another term to get a full $3,000-a-year MP's pension.

One of Diefenbaker's best campaign jokes was about the man who was picked up for running about shouting "No, no, no." He was a Liberal back bencher on vacation.

At one point Diefenbaker found himself running short of jokes. His wife noticed joke books on sale in a shop, and bought one for Diefenbaker without looking into it. When they opened it he roared with laughter, and she blushingly joined in. They were locker room jokes.

The Packsack

Only a Few More Years

By GREGORY CLARK

THE first war made a number of alcoholics out of Canadian boys in their teens or early twenties who in Britain and France as well as in the services met alcohol under conditions and circumstances that left little room for guidance and control. By guidance and control I mean those family and job influences that keep most young men on some kind of path, whether straight or narrow does not matter. Among these victims of war were a number of my comrades, most of whom were as crippled as if they had been hit by a shell; some of whom, of course, went to pot.

One of the remarkable cases among them is a man who went to that war at the age of 18, a shy, introverted type previously tied to his mother's apron strings and his father's bootlaces. He was a pushover for alcohol. On his return from the war he became a secret drinker, necessarily, and started down the dreary path. Over the years he has been in institutions, taken cures; A.A. did wonders for him, for long periods of time, but his life, for about 30 years, was entirely warped, torqued, twisted, agonized.

In the university library a day or two ago I ran into him and could scarcely believe my senses. Lean and weathered looking, he nonetheless was in obvious health. He was prosperous looking. Up to his ears in some technical books, he was cross-checking some mathematical work he was doing in connection with his job as a senior and highly responsible member of an engineering firm. We went to lunch together.

He has been totally off alcohol for over four years.

"Well, actually," he confessed, "it was A.A. that did the trick. But it happened in a funny way. I was 55 years old on my last binge. I got in touch with A.A., and the boys who came to see me helped me finish the birthday celebration. One of them said: 'You've only got a few more years to be awake.' Not alive, notice, but awake! Somehow, that one word stayed like an ink stain in my mind. India ink. And I started to think about it. All alcohol does is put you to sleep, make you drowsy, rob you of wakefulness. I thought of all the months and days I had not been awake. And do you know, despite my history, I have never had the slightest impulse to touch it again. I have only a few more years to be—awake!"

And the look on his face as he pronounced that one word was radiant.

Bomb Fall-out

Man the Weak Link

By MARTIN S. HAYDEN

WASHINGTON—Two weeks' intensive picking of the nation's best scientific brains have left congressional investigators of H-bomb test fall-out hazards balancing a "probability" against a "potentiality."

Scientifically "probable," if world-wide testing is extensively increased, is that many thousands of the billions who will be born in the next century will pay a price in radiation-sparked cancer, bone leukemia and genetic accidents.

Politically "potential," if U.S. tests are curbed, is Russian ability to take command of nuclear missile development and destroy Western freedom.

In developing the modern conundrum—and a suggestion that man's brain may have created a world beyond his control—the hard-working joint congressional committee on atomic energy has collected a mass of pure scientific data probably never equalled in a congressional record. In whole, it provides all known fall-out answers. By selective editing a demagogue can "prove" from it either that humanity is doomed by testing, or that bomb-radiation is no worse than living in a brick house, wearing a luminous-dial wrist watch, or sitting in California sunshine.

* * *

Hard points developed in the record are:

1. That, in exact proportion to the explosive power of its atomic trigger, every H-bomb produces radioactive fall-out.

2. That the fall-out travels world-wide but (with some ironic justice) falls heaviest on the north temperate latitudes of American, British and Russian bomb centres.

3. That gamma radiation from the fall-out, in sufficient quantity, causes definite genetic damage and in the tiniest quantity may cause some damage to generations unborn.

4. That a new substance (strontium-90) carried in the fall-out is absorbed by human bone and must be considered a probable cause of bone cancer and leukemia.

5. That to date—and for the foreseeable future at present test rates—the measure of radiation from H-bomb tests will not approach the level to which man is exposed daily by nature, by X-rays, by luminous watches, etc.

* * *

Contrary to pre-hearing anticipation, science witnesses most critical of testing did not challenge the basic AEC argument that H-bombs have added only fractionally to normal radiation. Dr. Shields Warren, former AEC medical director, so-argued that where average man will get 1/10th of a roentgen of fall-out radiation in the next 30 years, some men will get that much from a single X-ray of the chest or lung.

The critics (typically, Dr. A. H. Sturtevant, California Institute of Technology geneticist — did, however, add a loud "but" to the AEC approach.

"While the risk is less from fall-out (than from other radiation risks regularly taken) the essential point," he argued, "is that it is one over which the individual has no control. It has been argued that risk from fall-out is not very different from that of wearing a wrist watch with a radium-painted dial. If this comparison is accurate, it still leaves out of account the fact that some of us do not wear such wrist watches, and would complain loudly if anyone tried to insist that we and our children must do so.

"There are biological risks from bomb testing. They are small—so small that no individual should be seriously concerned about the danger to himself or his immediate descendants. Nevertheless, when the entire population of the United States—or of the world—is exposed it must be expected there will be many individuals damaged both in the exposed generation and in the following ones."

* * *

Sturtevant added that "to balance the serious effort by biologists to present and objective statement of biological hazards," he thought it "reasonable to ask for as detailed and objective a statement of the reasons for continued testing as is consistent with security considerations."

To that, the scientist member of the Atomic Energy Commission, chemist Willard F. Libby, responded with an explanation that a test-stop would mean a perfection of the small nuclear warheads essential for ballistic and guided missiles now under development both in Russia and the United States. The age of the "proven" nuclear bomb, he said in effect, is giving way to the era of the missile.

"Unfortunately," he said, "there is no substitute for testing to determine the reliability of a weapon, conventional or atomic. To cut off testing, therefore, means the cutting off the introduction of improved nuclear weapons systems. . . . It would mean cutting off of attempts to further improve design — designs which would lessen still further radioactive contamination from detonations, designs to make most efficient use of materials, designs that could function under the extremes that they would be called upon to face."

Letters to the Editor

Exit 'Supermen'

Whether or not there is the necessity for a further general election in the next year or so is beside the point of issues decided by the voice of the people last Monday; for no politician for the next generation will be foolish enough to repeat the succession of dictatorial indiscretions perpetrated by the Liberals immediately before, during and since the Suez crisis.

If June 10, 1957, has decided nothing definite in regard to Canada's immediate future, it unquestionably proved that the day of "the supermen of Ottawa" is past.

Youth Takes a Lead

I, along with other adults and parents, attended the National Youth Club meeting at the Plaza Theatre Sunday last and it was indeed refreshing to see the youth of Victoria out to help themselves with such a rational and commonsense program.

Offers of help with moral and financial support are pouring in and it would appear that a way has been found to a great extent to overcome the so-called "youth problem." I have thoroughly studied the impressive constitution they have; which thoroughly covers all angles of their proposed activities. C. R. Watling and the executive should be commended by all citizens and organizations for their work.

Enough has been said in the past about youth, some of it not too complimentary. Now is the opportunity to help the young people help themselves. Why not take this up as a centennial project for Greater Victoria? The area this branch covers is 15 miles and of course endeavors are being made to make the movement nationally wide.

Democracy at Work

Monday's election results are a graphic example of democracy at work. Objective analysis reveals that it is not so much the victory or defeat of the candidate as it is the fact that in this election at least it is the people who have won. This is an exhilarating thought for the elector, in that he (or she) exercises (and has done so). An important decision.

Having received the reprimand of the voter, I would not be surprised to see the Liberal government returned at the next election, however soon it may be called, for Liberal government is good government; nor am I a die-hard.

Too Many Officials

I would like to draw attention to one aspect of election-day precedure. At the polling station where I registered my vote there seemed to be about 30-40 clerks employed at the tables dealing in voters as they came in.

I have acted as election agent for candidates in England and also at another time as Presiding officer at a polling station. The voting procedure was simple and it was customary to provide two officers (presiding officer and clerk) to deal with several thousand voters at a polling station.

It would appear that there is room for economy in the procedure in Canada if my experience is typical.

J. C. BENNELL.

Gen. Pearkes' Thanks

I would like to take this opportunity to thank the electors of Esquimalt-Saanich for the wonderful support given to me at the general election last Monday. I am deeply moved by the renewed confidence expressed and realize the responsibilities that are now mine. It will be my earnest endeavor to represent the best interests of the constituency and I welcome your co-operation.

May I add a special word of thanks to all the voluntary workers who kindly assisted me with such enthusiasm and success.

GEORGE R. PEARKES.

Safety Now

Safety education invariably stresses "Safety First." This implies a choice. In countless cases we have no choice. It's safety now that counts. Why not stress this factor?

We may put safety first with no relationship to time. It might be first tomorrow. What we want is safety NOW. At this time. Immediately.

Canada Gets $67,000 In Forfeited Deposits

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The Canadian government will collect probably more than $67,000 in deposits lost by candidates in Monday's election.

Compilations by The Canadian Press showed that possibly 334 candidates of the 858 whose names were on the ballots for the voting will lose the $200 deposit each was required to post when nominated. Another five who withdrew also forfeit their deposits.

This compares with the all-time high of $92,400 in the 1945 elections when 462 in the record field of 952 forfeited their deposits by polling less than half the vote of the elected member in their constituencies. In 1953, 305 of 897 candidates lost their deposits.

Heaviest losses appeared to be in Ontario, with 106, and Quebec, with 82.

Of the 162 CCF candidates, 108 lost their deposits. Social Credit losers numbered 78 of 114 candidates. Progressive Conservative 56 of 256 and Liberal 41 of 262.

An analysis of the popular vote by provinces in the June 10 Dominion election shows that the Progressive Conservatives polled more than half the vote in Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia and the Liberals did the same in Newfoundland and Quebec. No other province voted more than half for one party.

A Canadian Press compilation based on 96 per cent of polls shows an all-Canada total of 6,322,093 votes, well above the previous record of 5,848,766 established in 1949. Indications are that from 73 to 74 per cent of eligible voters went to the polls. The recent high was 75.4 per cent in 1945.

The CCF polled 682,642 votes or 10.8 per cent of the total. Most CCF votes came in the following provinces: Ontario 268,847 (12.3 per cent), Manitoba 80,193 (23.9 per cent), Saskatchewan 131,549 (35.9 per cent), B.C. 126,356 (22.4 per cent).

Social Credit polled 416,510 votes or 6.6 per cent of the total. Most Social Credit votes came in Alberta with 151,614 (37.6 per cent) and B.C. 137,853 (24.4 per cent).

Red China's Ack-Ack Shoots Up U.S. Plane

HONG KONG (AP)—Red China said today planes from the U.S. aircraft carrier Hornet flew scores of sorties over China [illegible] Communist batteries.

One plane was hit and flew southward trailing smoke, a Peiping broadcast announced, and two F-84 Thunderjets manned by Nationalist China pilots were shot down in the same area—off Swatow—about 40 minutes earlier.

In Washington the U.S. Navy said one of its Hornet-based planes was fired upon by Communist anti-aircraft batteries about eight miles off the China coast while on a "routine training flight."

The plane received minor damage, the navy said, but returned safely to the carrier and no one was hurt. There was no mention of the United States returning the fire.

The Peiping and Washington announcements differed as to the time, but both obviously referred to the same incident.

Strike Possibility

Civil Service Body Insists On Collective Bargaining

NANAIMO—Members of the Nanaimo Branch, B.C. Government Employees' Association have sent a resolution to the provincial executive asking that, "in view of a possible strike, the executive accept no offer that does not include collective bargaining.

Government employees are attempting to obtain collective bargaining rights, better salaries, and revised hours of work.

Nanaimo Branch felt, however, that essential services should be allowed to operate on skeleton staffs where the personal welfare of individuals or groups is at stake. It mentioned public health services and institutions such as Brannan Lake corrective training school as examples.

"One big lie, which has been perpetrated and presented to the public," said a member, "is with the provincial government that all civil servants received have been consistently refused pay increases in 1956, excluding their annual increments. This just is not so."

Members considered that all efforts during the past few years to bargain "in good faith" with the provincial government that all civil servants received have been consistently refused

Strike Vote Next Week

Provincial civil servants will decide next week whether they favor going on strike to back up their demands for higher pay.

Strike ballots will go to all members of the B.C. Government Employees' Association Monday and it is expected they will be returned and counted by the end of the month.

The workers are demanding pay boosts immediately, although Premier Bennett has stated the government will raise wages at the next sitting of the legislature but cannot do so before.

This Room Designed To Save Life

By DAVID BROWN

Shortly after a middle-aged woman underwent surgery for removal of a stomach cancer at St. Joseph's Hospital yesterday she was wheeled into an immaculately sterile yet pleasantly bright large room of green tile and large windows.

Like some 24 other patients who made a brief stay in that room following their operations yesterday, the woman would have no recollection of being there.

During the visit in the post-anaesthesia recovery room nurses—most of them specialists in the field of initial recovery work—are with the patient, or if required, the meters and gauges of life-assisting equipment at the patient's head at all times.

Location, size and equipment of "PAR," as the room adjacent to theh operating theatre of St. Joseph's is called, is rated second to none in steering patients along the right side of the road that sometimes runs perilously close to the border of life.

In cases of extreme emergency, there is a central alarm system which summons surgeons and anaesthesiologists in seconds.

Doctors have long recognized that the post-operative patient needs special care.

The one thing that impresses both medicial officials and public about PAR is that lives are saved there, though no one could guess just how many.

PAR began at St. Joseph's in June, 1952, and is also incorporated in Royal Jubilee Hospital.

The room no patient remembers visiting represents a major milestone toward better care of the recovering.

Government Keeps Nanaimo Guessing

NANAIMO—Everybody in Nanaimo, who reads his newspapers thoroughly, knows that the contract for the extension of the assembly dock was let, and that work has begun.

Everybody, that is, except the city fathers. Council complained last night that after sending three communications to the federal government, it still has not received official confirmation of the move.

Contract for the $585,000 extension was let to Pacific Pile Driving Company, of Victoria, early last month.

Waterworks chairman Ald. George Bryce has made arrangements for an $18,000 water main extension into the dock area. But he cannot move until official word has been received from Ottawa.

"Maybe the government was too busy with the election," Mayor Pete Maffeo said.

Bingo Buggy Banged

DUNCAN—Whoever wins the Duncan Kinsmen car bingo tonight will get a shiny new car and not the one that has been driven around the streets for the last few weeks advertising the event.

The 1957 Meteor, which was to have been given away, was smashed into Tuesday by an old model car filled with teenagers. The bingo prize was damaged considerably and will be replaced with a brand new car, Kinsmen officials announced Wednesday.

The damaged car was fully insured, but many people have phoned the Kinsmen asking, if they win, will they get the damaged car or a new one. The answer is, a brand new car.

Hiram Walker Tops Eighty For New High

TORONTO (CP) — The stock market moved higher Wednesday in moderate trading.

Walkers featured industrial trading. One-half hour before the close it became extremely active and jumped 5½ points to a new high of 80½. The most active industrial, it traded more than 4,500 shares.

Other strong industrials included Canadian Oil, Howard-Smith, McColl and International Pete. Algoma Steel and International Utilities lost two points each.

Hudson Bay featured senior base metals, gaining 1¼ points. McIntyre lost two points at 110. Teck Hughes was off 27 cents in lower-priced mines while Area lost 42 cents.

Western oils had few major price changes but were on the upside. Calgary and Edmonton added one point at 33 and Sapphire 14 cents at $1.64.

Papers Strengthen

MONTREAL (CP)—Gains predominated Wednesday at the close of the most active stock market in several weeks on the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges.

Gains were general in the papers section. B. C. Forest and Powell River each added ½.

Hudson Bay led base metals with a one-point climb and Noranda followed up ½. Aluminium was up ⅝.

McColl scored a gain of ⅝ in oils and Imperial was up ⅛.

Rails Join Advance

NEW YORK (UP) — Railroad shares registered their best gain since Feb. 13 in a higher, moderately active stock market.

Industrials with a small gain reached their best level since Aug. 20, 1956. Utilities crept up slightly.

Rails, getting into line with the industrials which have been outstripping them, registered gains ranging to more than 2 points in Western Maryland. Atlantic Coast Line, Baltimore & Ohio, Illinois Central, Northern Pacific and Southern Pacific gained a point or more.

Oils continued active, notably Shell Transport and Jersey Standard, each higher. Bethlehem Steel and U.S. Steel were active and higher with the former at a new high. Motors had large volume with Chrysler up about a point.

London Stock Prices

LONDON (Reuters) — Business eased and quiet conditions prevailed.

Interest in oil shares dwindled. Gilt-edged securities were largely neglected and prices eased with occasional small selling orders.

Dollar stocks were mainly higher, reflecting the overnight recovery on Wall Street.

Small declines predominated among industrials.

Highland Bell Reacts

VANCOUVER — Highland Bell reacted sharply to 1.55 after increasing its previous day's gains to 1.90. Most coppers, however, strengthened with Trojan at 39 cents and Cowichan Copper at 1.33. Pacific Nickel was supported at 1.28.

Pacific Pete was a firm oil feature at $32, but most others failed to hold their highs for the day. Fargo jumped to 8.05 and then closed at 7.70.

Crown Zellerbach (Canada) up over 50 cents at $18½ was a feature in industrials along with Capital Estates at 4.90.

CHICAGO (AP)—A rally advanced wheat and corn futures prices more than a cent at times.

Wheat was strong on heavy rainfall, high winds and hail in the southwestern winter wheat area, which will further delay the harvest. It also may damage the quality of the crop.

New 1,675-Foot Bridge

Giant Spans Peace River

By HARRY YOUNG
Colonist Business Editor

A suspension bridge 125 feet longer than the Lion's Gate Bridge at Vancouver has been built over the Peace River at Taylor B.C. as part of the $200,000,000 Westcoast Transmission natural gas pipeline which will be going into operation within the next few months.

Details of the giant 1,675-foot bridge were given at Banff yesterday by A. L. Berry of Westcoast and B. L. Moreau of Pacific Petroleums at the annual meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

The bridge will carry two pipelines, one of 26-inch diameter bringing low-pressure Alberta gas to the scrubbing plant at Taylor, and the other of 30-inch diameter, which is part of the main line carrying gas the other way.

The 130,000,000 cubic feet a day of Alberta gas brought into the Taylor scrubbing plant every day is dry and sweet. It requires only pressurisation.

On the other hand the 300,000,000 cubic feet coming daily from the B.C. fields at Fort St. John and West Buick is of the wet, sour type. It has to be scrubbed to remove acid gas, propane and natural gas before it is dry and clean enough to be mixed with the Alberta gas.

It is from these extraction processes that Westcoast and Pacific Petroleum expect to reap a large proportion of their revenue.

When the Alberta and B.C. gases are mixed they will enter the main line and cross the Peace River suspension bridge on their way south to serve the millions of the Pacific Northwest.

Initially Westcoast will sell about one quarter of its throughput to B.C. communities, principally the City of Vancouver. The rest will be sold to El Paso Natural Gas for distribution in the U.S.

In the pipeline the gas will flow at about 10 miles an hour, and there will be about 1,000,000,000 cubic feet in storage all the time.

BCE MAPS PROJECT

A street map of the Victoria downtown area showing B.C. Electric's proposed program of work and the dates when the work will be done is on view at the offices of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce at 816 Wharf Street.

In view of the fact that B.C. Electric proposes to resume street operations early in October, when Victoria is proposing to stage its shopping week, merchants and others interested are asked to study the chart, and be in a position to offer suggestions to the city engineer when he attends the [illegible] retail merchants group.

OUTLOOK CHEERY

Canadian Atlantic Oil Company, associate of Pacific Petroleums in a number of leading gas and oil ventures, made a net profit of $124,291 from sales of $971,052 in the year ending Feb. 28.

The company now has interests in 6,200,000 acres of which 4,000,000 are in the B.C. sedimentary triangle. It has also extended its holding in the southern Saskatchewan area and has an interest in acreage in Venezuela.

The earnings outlook is bright, according to the annual report, with revenues due shortly to be augmented by gas sales to Westcoast Transmission Pipeline.

ENGINEERS NEEDED

There are three jobs in Canada waiting for every engineering graduate, according to V. A. McKillop, London, Ont., president of the Engineering Institute of Canada.

Addressing the annual meeting of the Institute in Banff, Mr. McKillop said that although universities have plans for new buildings, additional staff and other expansion, "we don't see the end of the shortage and don't see any chance of catching up with demand for a long time."

Unsinkable Sailor Survives Again

GLASGOW, Scotland (UP)—An unsinkable British sailor with a past record of falling into ponds and rivers fell into the Pacific Ocean Tuesday and swam nine hours before his ship returned to pick him up.

The sailor was Douglas Wardrop, second mate of the Freighter British Monarch. The ship's owners reported today he fell overboard when the ship was 1,500 miles out of Panama en route to Japan and wasn't missed until the ship had gone 100 miles.

His mother gave high praise for the ship's captain for the "miraculous" escape—and the incredible navigation that returned the ship to the exact spot. But she said it was nothing new for Douglas.

He fell into a series of ponds while a child and once tumbled into the River Thames while fishing for tiddlers.

The ship's owners said Wardrop's absence was not noticed for 3½ hours, but Capt. John Coutts, 50, steered back to the exact spot where Wardrop had fallen overboard and found him floating in the sea—unharmed despite the fact that the area is notorious for sharks.

Shipping company officials here said the rescue was "miraculous." First news of it came in a cable from Coutts to the shipowners, The Monarch Steamship Company, Ltd.

The cable said tersely: "Second mate fell overboard at 0430, was not missed until 0800. Stop—Vessel turned and steamed on reverse course, second mate sighted and picked up at 1330 now all well—Stop—Will report from Japan."

Ministers to Get $200 More a Year

VANCOUVER (CP) — The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada yesterday approved an increase of $200 a year in the basic pay of ministers.

The 83rd assembly voted to increase the total basic stipend to $3,300 a year, including travel allowance. It referred to the board of administration the question of whether the portion considered as travel allowance be set at $300 or $500 a year.

Ministers previously received a basic $2,800 a year with an additional $300 as travel allowance.

Salaries of general secretaries and professors in the church's theological colleges were raised to $6,600 a year, effective in September, to be increased by $100 a year. College principals will receive an additional $1,000 a year.

Rev. Lloyd Henderson, mayor of Portage La Prairie, Man., earlier said several ministers have considered leaving the ministry and taking jobs in industry so they can help meet the church's financial needs.

Mr. Henderson, who has been mayor of his city for 10 years, said later in an interview he has been offered a $25,000-a-year job as an economist. The McGill University economics and political science graduate said his church stipend is $3,000 a year.

Surging Rocks Tie for Lead; Beat Pils After Tough Battle

By JIM TAYLOR

Victoria Shamrocks, apparently in high gear at last, ran their winning streak to four games and grabbed a share of first place in the Inter-City Lacrosse League last night with an 11-8 victory over Vancouver Pilseners before 2,758 fans at Memorial Arena.

Result left the Shamrocks tied for the lead with the Nanaimo Timbermen, and the Rocks can take over first place for themselves tonight, when they go for victory number nine against Jake Proctor's Salmonbellies at New Westminster.

Last night's score: VICTORIA 11, Vancouver 8.
Next game: tonight, VICTORIA at New Westminster.

Shamrocks, although they managed to outhustle Vancouver most of the way, had a battle on their hands before subduing the Pilseners. Vancouver was looking for a share of second place and came from behind on several occasions in an effort to get it.

However, the Rocks broke loose for four unanswered goals to wrap it up after Pils had tied the score at 7-7 late in the third quarter. This time Vancouver couldn't come back, and only Ted Hunt beat Don Hamilton in the last 10 minutes of the game.

BRADSHAW STARS

Pee Wee Bradshaw was high point man for the Shamrocks with two goals and a pair of assists. Don Sherry scored twice, and Bill Bamford picked up three points on a goal and two assists.

For the Pils, the ever-hustling Hunt and Fred Usselman each scored twice and assisted on one goal.

High-scoring Jack Bionda was held to a single goal last night, but as usual, the shot was almost worth the price of admission in itself. The colorful forward went in alone on Dave Unwin, faked four times until Unwin dropped to his knees, then casually flicked the ball into the top of the net.

Shamrocks were ahead, 3-0, with six minutes gone in the second quarter on goals by Sherry, Bionda and Bradshaw. They relaxed slightly, and 10 seconds later the hustling Pils were trailing by only one goal as hard-working Bill Barbour and Gordie Gimble beat Hamilton.

PILS RALLY

It was the first of a series of comebacks for the Pilseners. Sherry and Jack Northup made it 5-2 for the Rocks at 9.45, but Al Jarvis intercepted a pass to score, Usselman scored from Hunt, Usselman passed to Hunt for another goal with Al Davies off for boarding, and the score was tied at 5-5.

Pils lost the services of Tom Murphy with four seconds left in the half. Murphy was hit on the left eye by a whistling drive off the stick of Jack Bionda, who was only 10 feet away.

Murphy fell to the floor and had to be helped to the dressing room.

The third quarter was a see-saw affair. Shamrocks went ahead 7-5 on goals by Al Gill and Bamford, only to have Pilseners come back to tie it up again. Don Cummings scored on a breakaway, and Usselman scored from John Cerv, as the Pilseners began to show some of their touted speed.

ROCKS TAKE OVER

But from then on the Shamrocks had things pretty much their own way. Bradshaw and Lew Landess scored before the quarter ended, and Dobbie and Art Green added the last two Shamrock goals in the first five minutes of the last quarter.

Hamilton and Unwin both turned in fine performances in the nets. Unwin made a total of 29 saves, and Hamilton stopped 21 shots.

Hamilton was particularly impressive in the last quarter when Pils shook clear several times in their attempts at another comeback.

Only 16 minutes in penalties were handed out in the game, eight to each club.

West Coast City Takes Steps To Clear Path for Brooklyn

The City of Los Angeles took official steps Wednesday to pave the way for the Brooklyn Dodgers to transfer their National League baseball franchise to the West Coast city in 1958.

RED SCHOENDIENST
. . . Still with Giants

In one action, the city council voted to start condemnation proceedings to obtain 18 privately-owned parcels of land in Chavez Ravine, proposed sports and recreation area as well as possible site of the Dodger's future home.

Mayor Norris Poulson's two-million dollar budget item for wooing major league baseball to Los Angeles hit a snag in council chambers, however.

One councilman warned that when hearings on the budget are concluded today he would introduce a motion asking the two million be transferred to the Capital Improvement Fund. This would prevent the use of the money for improving the Chavez Ravine site.

REACH IMPASSE: The pennant-starved Milwaukee Braves, striving desperately to plug a weakness at second base, have admitted they have reached an impasse in their efforts to wrest Red Schoendienst from New York Giants. A club official disclosed that a Braves' proposal of four players for Schoendienst had been rejected by the Giants and added that a New York counter-proposal was, in turn, vetoed by Milwaukee . . . British Columbia Lions of the Western Interprovincial Football Union will arrive in Kelowna July 5 to open their summer training camp . . . Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League have acquired Dick Gamble from Quebec Aces for an undisclosed sum of cash . . . Roy Harris vaulted into the ranks of the leading heavyweight contenders Tuesday night with a unanimous 10-round decision over third-ranked Willie Pastrano. It was Harris' 21st consecutive victory as a professional and was watched by a record Texas crowd of 10,000 at Houston.

* * *

WANTS TO MANAGE: Mrs. Julia Mintz, widow of Pittsburgh fight manager Jake Mintz, said Wednesday she wants to step into her late husband's shoes and handle middleweight Wilf Greaves, former Edmonton boxer. State Athletic Commissioner Paul G. Sullivan said he would look into the Pennsylvania boxing laws to determine if Mrs. Mintz is eligible to manage in the state . . . The Toronto Argonauts, who have promised drastic changes for the 1957 Big Four Football Union season, have come up with a plan for drum majorettes and a permanent band for pre-game and half-time entertainment at home games . . . Handlers of welterweight champion Carmen Basilio have served notice that their boxer will fight Sugar Ray Robinson only if James D. Norris does the promoting . . . Winnipeg Blue Bombers have signed quarterback Guy Martin, who played at Colgate from 1954 to 1956.

VIEWS OF SPORT

By Red Smith

NEW YORK—A penny saved is a penny earned, and that $6,000 clipped out of Yankee paychecks should enable Dan Topping to throw a female wolf of a party some one of these midnights. At the Copacabana, naturally.

George Weiss' statement that "the club believes that player relationships off the field are a matter between the individual player and the club" is an accurate enough expression of policy, and it is also fairly amusing. Considering that the nosebleed suffered by one of the Jones boys on May 16 has been, for more than two weeks, a matter between the headline writers and the public, it seems a trifle late now to insist that it was all a family row.

Chances are that baseball fans generally were startled, not to say shocked, by the severity of the penalties applied against the Yankees' Sleepless Six. By all standards of baseball precedent, a fine of $1,000 is a stunning wallop for a player who is caught out on the town after hours.

The size of the bite calls attention to and emphasizes the fact that it wasn't for a mere curfew violation or a sip from the convivial bowl that management swung the big stick. The offenders were slugged for getting their names in the papers and for losing ball games.

They May Achieve in Time

None of the Yankee executives had been under the misapprehension that all ball players were milk drinkers who habitually retired at sundown. Least of all was Casey Stengel deceived, for he has been around since the day before yesterday, at least, and he has never pretended that he confined his own playing to the field in his active days.

There has been no official objection to a grown man taking his wife out for an occasional evening of relaxation, and ever since the advent of night baseball there has been a general relaxing of curfew rules. The celebrants at Billy Martin's birthday party committed no heinous crime, except—

Except that there was a ruckus that made headlines and got into the courts. Except also, it happened at a time when the Yankees were playing poorly.

Yankees are supposed to win, and when they aren't actively engaged on the field they're supposed to leave it to Bob Fishel, the publicity man, to make headlines. 'Bob does a first-rate job and presumably is paid satisfactorily, though dollar for dollar he can't compete for newspaper space with the Copa Cutups. Not at the rates which management has established.

To Let the Punishment Fit the Crime

The question of exactly what happened in the Copa that night became a matter for court decision when Edwin Jones, the bowler who says he got punched, filed charges against Hank Bauer.

Probably everybody who knows Bauer has his own private opinion about that, but it would be improper to express it publicly while a lawsuit is pending. In would be interesting to know whether the Yankee brass gave thought to the legal aspects of the case before assessing the fines.

Slapping that fine on Bauer—and of course he had to be disciplined if the others were going to be—was not altogether unlike prejudging the lawsuit. Chances are there are unthinking persons who, considering the size of the fine, will conclude that Hank must have been guilty of something.

To be sure, the Yankee bosses would insist that Jones' part in the affair had nothing whatever to do with their decision. Pointing out that Bauer was penalized no more severely than those who have not been accused of hitting anybody, they would argue that the sole offence was violation of training rules. This would be true, too, except that if there hadn't been some sort of disturbance starting an embarrassing hullabaloo, the penalties wouldn't have been nearly so stiff.

The Punishment Fit the Crime

Personally Hank Bauer is a class guy, quiet, friendly, steady-going and dead honest. He has had an unblemished record with the Yankees, never has made trouble for anybody but the opposition.

In the Soreno Hotel in St. Petersburg, spring home of the Yankees, there is a coffee shop that is also the bar, across the lobby from the main dining room. Last March a couple of newspapermen starting for the coffee shop for a sandwich, paused in the lobby to chat with Bauer.

"Join us for a cup of coffee, Hank," one of them suggested, but Bauer shook his head.

"In all the years I've been coming here," he said, "I've never been in that room. I'm not starting now."

So then this had to happen to him.

Torrid NL Race Even Tighter; Mantle Hits Two but Sox Win

Chicago White Sox regained their five-game edge over the New York Yankees despite a great one-man show by Mickey Mantle, but the spotlight again turned on the sizzling National League race, a battle in which only one game separates the top five clubs.

Mantle hit his 17th and 18th home runs of the season, collected two other hits and drove in four runs but it was in a losing cause as the White Sox scored a 7-6 comeback victory over the world champions to break a three-game losing streak.

But it was the senior circuit which provided the big news. Pittsburgh Pirates swept a three-game series from first-place Cincinnati, 4-3, in 10 innings; Brooklyn ended it losing streak at four games with an 11-9 victory over the Milwaukee Braves, and St. Louis Cardinals ran their winning streak to eight with a 4-0 blanking of the Philadelphia Phillies.

As things now stand, the Redlegs are in first place with a half-game edge over Milwaukee and Brooklyn. The Cardinals and the Phillies share fourth place, only one game behind the slumping Cincinnati club.

The Pirates hustled from behind to tie the Redlegs with a single run in the ninth, then bagged their fourth in a row on Gene Freese's run-scoring single in the 10th against releifer Tom Acker. The Reds blow a 2-1 lead in going down to their eighth defeat in the last 11 games.

SETS RECORD

Eddie Mathews hit one of the three Milwaukee homers, his 10th of the season and 200th of his career for a Milwaukee-Boston club record.

Robin Roberts permitted the Cards only four hits in his seven frames, but two were home runs—the 17th and 18th off the veteran righthander—and Roberts went down to his eighth defeat in 14 decisions.

Don Blasingame rapped a home run in the third, and Del Ennis, the former Phil, then socked a three-run homer in the sixth as Larry Jackson won his eighth game of the season.

MAYS AGAIN

Willie Mays again did most of the work for the New York Giants, hitting a three-run homer in the sixth and then scoring the winning run in the ninth as the Giants edged the Chicago Cubs, 4-3.

The White Sox squared the three-game set despite the great effort by Mantle, who now has hit four homers in his last three games and seven in eight games. Hank Bauer and Bill Skowron also hit homers in the Yanks' 14-hit attack but the White Sox got home run blasts from Walt Dropo, who drove in four runs, and Jim Rivera.

Jim Bunning won his fifth straight game and sixth of the season, pitching Detroit to a 4-2 victory over Baltimore and tying Billy Pierce of Chicago for the league strikeout lead by boosting his total to 70.

Breaks Endurance Mark

Musial Credits Record to Luck

PHILADELPHIA — The ever-modest Stan Musial called it "luck" Wednesday night when he broke the National League record for consecutive games played, but a look at the record stamps him as the second most durable player in the history of the game.

Only the late Lou Gehrig outranks the slim Musial for durability. Gehrig played in 2,130 consecutive games for the New York Yankees to earn the title of "Iron Man" of baseball.

Musial has been in the lineup of the St. Louis Cardinals in 2,192 of the club's 2,229 games since he joined the team some 14 years ago. The Donora, Pa. native played in his 823 consecutive ball game last night to break the record set by Gus Suhr 10 years ago.

"You have to be lucky to do something like this," said Musial. "I've been fortunate not to have any serious injuries that would sideline me. I go out there and play every game and the fact they have come in succession is secondary to me."

Musial, who began his string on opening day, 1952, would have at least another 100 games on the current string if he hadn't sat out the last game of the 1951 season merely to give a rookie an opportunity to play.

The veteran first baseman-outfielder also said last night that "I'm far more interested in getting my 3,000th hit."

Musial started Wednesday night's game with 2,851 safeties which gives him 17th place on the all-time list. He already holds the league record for most extra-base hits.

Mounties Blanked by Stars; Seals Flub Chance to Gain

Hollywood Stars, the hottest club in the Pacific Coast Baseball League, dropped the Vancouver Mounties for the second straight time last night, shutting them out 5-0 on a brilliant three-hitter by George Witt.

Witt gave up a double to Len Green in the second inning and a single to Carl Powis in the fourth, then held the Mounties hitless until the ninth, when Spider Jorgenson singled. He struck out five and walked two.

Bill Causion hit two doubles and a single for the Stars, boosting his average to .336, tops in the league.

The win put the Stars within three games of league-leading San Francisco and two and a half games back of the Mounties. The Seals lost, 2-1, to Sacramento on a ninth-inning error by Albie Pearson with two out.

Seattle Raniers beat Portland Beavers, 2-1, as Duane Pillette gave them three-hit relief pitching and drove in the winning run in the sixth inning.

In last night's other game, Jim Grant struck out 13 in leading San Diego Padres to a 3-1 win over Los Angeles Angels.

Turns Down Invitation

Canuck Amateur Star Won't Take Chances

TORONTO (CP)—An official of the Royal Canadian Golf Association said today any amateur golfer accepting expense money for taking part in a golf match at Flint, Mich., is liable to lose his amateur status.

An international match for amateurs is scheduled for Flint June 17.

In Winnipeg, George Knudson, one of Manitoba's top amateurs, said he will not take part in the match. He said he had been invited but had learned his amateur standing would be in danger if he accepted expense money for the trip.

The RCGA official said he did not know whether the other three Canadian amateurs invited to take part in the tournament will go to Flint. They are Gary Cowan, Kitchener, Ont., Canadian junior champion, Don Doe, Granby, Que., and Nick Weslock, Windsor, Ont.

Vowles Moves Ahead On Fourth-Week List

There were signs of improved fishing in Saanich Inlet yesterday as seven anglers claimed rungs on the fourth-week qualifying list of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association annual ladder derby.

Only two salmon were weighed in during the first two days and nine rungs have now been filled with four days remaining.

Jim Vowles took the top rung with a 16-pound, 13-ounce fish caught in Cole Bay last evening. Three other fish caught yesterday topped the six-pound mark.

Oak Bay Health Program In Schools, 'Unsatisfactory'

School Trustee Richard Reeve expressed dissatisfaction yesterday with the school health program in Oak Bay.

At this week's meeting of the Victoria-Esquimalt-Union Board of Health he reiterated he was [illegible] suggesting that the health board provide service to Oak Bay schools and that the Greater Victoria school board pay for it. Oak Bay has its own health department.

We have had assurances regarding the schools program in Saanich, he said. We have a good program in all of the schools except in Oak Bay.

Mr. Reeve said he was not being critical of any person. They just haven't the facilities.

We are just looking after our own safety, said Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson agreeing with Mr. Reeve that germs don't know area boundaries.

Flag Officer Joins Cruise

Rear Admiral H. F. Pullen, flag officer Pacific Coast sailed from Esquimalt Tuesday aboard HMCS Jonquiere on a 7-day cruise during which the frigate will circumnavigate Vancouver Island.

Purpose of the cruise is to inspect ancillary facilities and services of coastal bay gation [illegible] the board.

On Thursday, Admiral Pullen will make his annual inspection of the cruiser HMCS Ontario at Saanich Bay.

Jonquiere, its 130 officers and men commanded by Lt.-Cmdr. J. D. Gibson, will return to Esquimalt June 25.

Garden Notes

Don't Overdo It!

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I don't suppose there is an easier vegetable to grow than the radish; consequently almost everybody grows them. [illegible]

The most common mistake lies in sowing too many seeds at a time.

[illegible]

Cherry Belle is a little beauty, smooth and round and without any white tip resembling a cherry in shape and color. It is probably the quickest of all vegetables to grow, maturing in only 24 days from seed.

There there was a parody, "Outdated Pictures" on Charlie Chan, which was strongly reminiscent of Sid Caesar. And all the foregoing gentlemen do these things much better than Lewis does.

Area Centennial Effort May Go to House Aged

Big Kiwanis Project Under Consideration

Construction of a Centennial Villa on land adjoining the Kiwanis Village, one of the projects being considered by the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee, will provide accommodation for 71 widows and widowers living on pensions.

[illegible] a spokesman for the Kiwanis Village society, said last night the society [illegible] the villa for the past two years and had plans drawn up for a building to accommodate 71 persons [illegible] expected to [illegible] late '58.

The society was approached by the centennial committee with the suggestion that the villa might be made Greater Victoria's centennial project, he said.

About one-third of the $400,000 [illegible] would be provided by the [illegible] committee, another [illegible] by a grant from the provincial government and the [illegible] would be the responsibility of the society.

"If the suggestion is accepted as the centennial project, it could be completed in the time required for centennial grants," Mr. Lochhead said.

The Kiwanis Village Society is interested in hearing from members of the public on whether they think the construction of the villa is suitable for a centennial project by the city and municipalities in the Greater Victoria area.

The Kiwanis Village society has agreed to operate and [illegible] with the village, which provides accommodation for 34 couples and eight single persons.

The villa would provide bed-sitting rooms each 10 feet by 12 feet, [illegible] storage closets and [illegible].

The rooms are placed in four wings around a central open court [illegible] and [illegible] provided at the junctions of the four wings.

A small chapel auditorium recreation room will also be built to accommodate the tenants of both the Village and the Villa.

How to Grow a Pain

Sharp lecture on the hazards of eating laburnum seeds as between-meal snacks is given five-year-old Larry Scott (left), 2614 [illegible], by 10-year-old Danny Robertson, 2615 [illegible]. Royal Jubilee Hospital treated the first two cases of laburnum seed munching of the season yesterday. Warm spring weather has speeded the growth of the seeds, which usually account for a rash of upset stomachs.—(Colonist photo by Ted Harris.)

Dangerous Seeds

Nibblers Escape

Two tween-meals nibblers, aged 4 and 5, had themselves a short snack in the shade of a laburnum tree yesterday. Minutes after the poisonous seeds left the small tummies via a stomach pump in Royal Jubilee Hospital's poison control centre.

The youngsters were the first two cases received at the hospital this year of potential severe stomach-ache and possibly worse resulting from consumption of the small seeds that flutter to the ground from the pods of laburnums.

Spotted in the course of the first mouthful by the mother of one, the party was quickly broken up by a fast trip to the hospital.

"They didn't contain very many seeds," a hospital official said. "Because of the quick action they didn't even feel a hint of a tummy-ache."

The official said the warm spring has pushed the growth of laburnum seeds, which usually account for a rash of upset stomachs among the pre-school set.

Parks Administrator W. H. Warren warned the troublesome seeds are likely to continue in profusion for the next few weeks.

Strachan Tolls Knell Of Liberals, Socreds

* * *

Talking Politics
By Peter Bruton

* * *

While most experts continued to discuss Canada's immediate political future yesterday it was provincial CCF leader Robert Strachan who came up with an interesting long-term view.

Mr. Strachan told this reporter that he feels the outcome of Monday's election will eventually result in a return to a two-party system similar to that in Great Britain with labor on one side and the Conservatives on the other.

"I'm as happy as a lark," he said. "The CCF has never been in better shape."

Broadly speaking Mr. Strachan's idea is that the Liberals and the Social Crediters will disappear as such during the coming years to meld into the CCF and Conservative parties.

This coalition would come about as a process of evolution, not by agreement of the parties concerned. Workers would support the labor party; [illegible] the Conservatives.

Mr. Strachan also foresees the [illegible] of Social Credit in B.C. After making such tremendous gains federally, the Conservatives will have to field candidates in all ridings in future provincial elections, he avers.

And the pro-Conservatives who vote Social Credit provincially will almost certainly switch back to their old colors, leaving the Socreds high and dry.

A test of Mr. Strachan's opinion will probably come in the next few months when three provincial by-elections are due to be held in Burnaby, Delta and the Cariboo.

The Burnaby vacancy was caused by the death of CCFer Ernest Winch and the Cariboo seat became vacant when Agriculture Minister Ralph Chetwynd died earlier this year. Former speaker of the Legislature Tom Irwin resigned in Delta to contest the federal riding of Burnaby-Richmond for Social Credit.

Outcome of that contest is still in doubt, with Mr. Irwin a scant 79 votes ahead of his Conservative opponent.

Premier Bennett hasn't decided when the provincial by-elections should be held, but the three seats must be filled before the next session of the provincial legislature, probably early next year.

An idea of whether the federal vote has had any effect on provincial politics will be seen from the manner in which the Conservative candidates fare.

Social Crediters themselves privately admit they were dismayed by the outcome of their full-scale drive on Ottawa. They had gone into the campaign confident they would win at least 12 of B.C.'s 22 seats.

Instead they won five and appear to have the sixth almost in their pocket. But it's still far short of their hopes.

And in the next federal election the Socreds could fare a lot worse when a lot of people will probably jump aboard the Conservative bandwagon.

Harmony Restored in Royal Family

By MARGARET ANDERSON

[illegible] parted up [illegible] reaffirming [illegible] every [illegible]

This was [illegible] which the royal family [illegible] last years [illegible] which rocked this tidy land.

[illegible] Prince Bernhard brusquely ordered Juliana to get rid of Greet Hofmans, the faith healer [illegible]

"You [illegible] the home [illegible] the moment when we married and it brought us happiness until you [illegible]"

Miss Hofmans was installed in the palace to attempt the cure of their near-blind 11-year-old daughter, Marijke. It is the impression of palace officials that Bernhard deliberately forced a showdown on the faith-healer issue as a matter of principle.

Bernhard has never made any secret of his contempt for husbands who permit themselves to be bossed by their wives. It was Bernhard who coached Prince Philip, prior to Philip's marriage to Britain's Queen Elizabeth, on "how to be a man and still be a consort."

[illegible]

"I have been called to a task so heavy that no one who fully realizes it for a moment will ever covet it, but a task, too, so magnificent that I can only say 'who am I that I should be allowed to do this?'"

Juliana still feels this way. The truth is she has little real love for her job. She would much prefer to be an ordinary middle class Dutch housewife.

This well-known attitude of Juliana's toward her throne is an ever-present factor in speculation just how long she and Bernhard can compose their diametrically opposite temperaments.

[illegible] ordinary Dutch children and they are frugally [illegible]

In brief, Juliana [illegible] the most democratic. More important, from a woman's viewpoint, she seems to have [illegible]

CONFIDENTIALLY YOURS
—by Byrne Hope Sanders

MONTREAL, June 13th — A bargain is a bargain . . . only when you have the cash to take advantage of it. That's why I so often urge my friends to follow the practice I began years ago and open a special-purpose account at the nearest branch of the BANK OF MONTREAL. Be sure to make regular deposits and you'll be delighted as you watch your savings grow. Then, when some attractive bargain presents itself, you're there with the ready cash to take advantage of it. It might be a sale on living room drapes, a late-summer clearance of dresses or a week-end trip at bargain rates. Wonderful "buys" are always presenting themselves, and money in the bank can make the difference between wishing and having. So why not drop into your nearest B of M branch today and open your "special-purpose fund". You'll find it can be your passport to better living.

CALLING ALL CINDERELLAS . . . Remember the way Cinderella's fairy godmother turned a pumpkin into a [illegible] with the flick of a magic wand? How would you like to do just that with some of the tired [illegible] rooms in your home. Sounds like a fairy tale, but it's really quite possible. I've got a booklet for the Shows you in colorful illustrations how these old rooms can [illegible] with a little ingenuity and less cost than you might think. And this wonderful book is absolutely FREE! It's called "ROOMS I'D LIKE TO LIVE WITH". Send your name and address to me for your FREE COPY, 1111 Crescent St., Montreal.

VETERINARIANS AGREE . . . the most important factor for a dog's health and happiness is a complete, nutritionally balanced diet every day. [illegible] of your dog makes him sluggish, dulls his coat. So, if you love your dog, as I'm sure you do, give him the proper balanced diet that only DR. BALLARD'S CHAMPION DOG FOOD can provide to keep him healthy, [illegible] Dr. Ballard's [illegible] So next time you shop for your pet, better get Dr. Ballard's Champion Dog Food . . . Regular, Chicken and Liver flavours.

WHAT IS SO RARE? No . . . I'm not thinking of a day in June, but of a really good cup of coffee. Best way to make it a regular treat in your house is to always use INSTANT CHASE & SANBORN. When you buy it, look through the window in the jar and see the rich coffee color that means real coffee [illegible]. When you make it, you'll enjoy the full-bodied [illegible] coffee flavor, as [illegible] thousands of [illegible] are doing this very day. Back of Instant Chase & Sanborn's perfection lies nearly 100 years of coffee experience. It should be good and it is extra good. I've just [illegible] a cup — and it was delicious. Do order a jar this week, you'll love it.

[illegible] IS REALLY THE BEST WAY to describe this delectable casserole. Do try it — made with LIPTON CHICKEN NOODLE SOUP and asparagus, broccoli, or spinach.

TV TALK

By Bruce Lowther

Three weeks after NBC gave a vote of confidence to its terrible Tonight show the network has decided to drop the late variety show in mid July and replace it with a Jack Paar show similar to Steve Allen's former effort at the same time.

Paar probably will retain newsman Bob Considine, whose comments are the only good thing on the present horror, and will add a staff singer, comedy panel, 12-piece orchestra and three guest stars each night.

* * *

Multi-talented Gisele McKenzie is a guest when Ray Bolger ends his season on NBC tonight. Clifford Odets' work appears on TV for the first time when Playhouse 90 does "Clash By Night." Good movies are "Winslow Boy" and "Genevieve."

* * *

What with all the musical and variety shows scheduled for next season, the scramble is on for guest stars. For example, Steve Allen has booked his show six months ahead, already hiring such as Joan Crawford, Sammy Davis, Peter Lawford, Ann Sothern, Carl Reiner and Audrey Meadows for one-shots next fall.

Allen also invited Sid Ceasar and Jackie Gleason but both declined. The reason for getting so far ahead is to keep the guests' asking price down. Going rate right now is $7,500 for a leading singer for one show.

TV BITS: Steve Allen outrated Ed Sullivan again last week 21.6 to 18.5 . . . However, one of the rating companies shows both Sullivan and Allen out of the top 10. Leading regulars are, in order, Perry Como, Lucy, This Is Your Life, $64,000 Question, Playhouse 90, Groucho Marx, Red Skelton, December Bride.

* * *

Continued high ratings for Playhouse 90 have forced the sponsors of competing Lux Video Theatre to cut the show to 30 minutes next fall . . . Arthur Godfrey's daytime show has been out rated for the first time, by The Price Is Right. So what happens? NBC decides to move The Price Is Right to 7.30 Mondays in the fall . . . Kaiser Aluminum has decided to sponsor old movies on ABC for 90 minutes each Sunday next season, opposite Sullivan and Allen . . . How sickening can they get? A recent prize on Name That Tune was a trip to Europe, highlighted by an audience with the Pope.

Sioux Sails For Halifax On July 2

The destroyer HMCS Sioux sails from Esquimalt July 2 for a new posting at Halifax.

The veteran active-duty and training ship, which had an impressive war record, will join the operational fleet of the navy's Atlantic Command. There have been rumors that she will be given to some NATO country, but so far they are just rumors.

HMCS Margaree, new destroyer escort, identical to the Skeena, will be transferred here from Halifax.

The crew of the Sioux, which is scheduled to arrive in Halifax Aug. 6, will stay over and bring the Margaree back, some time in October, after she is commissioned.
